Wanna's Place at L-Resort, Krabi

The talk of the town, Wanna's Place is one of Ao Nang's oldest and thus a haunt, particular for European travelers. Tasting regional foods over two decades of travel, I experience for the first time Thai style Indian samosa. Samosa is the world's first snack introduced by people living along the ancient civilization belt. While Thai cuisines at its best - the restaurant also offers international dishes, with a specialty on Swiss food and steaks in an intimate environment where you feel like sitting in comfort inside Krabi Mountains. www.thelresort.com

Set amidst coconut grove, the restaurant at the Islanda Eco Village Resort Koh Klang (Krabi) offers authentic Thai kitchen with fresh seafood from the nearby fishing village. The menu is based on creative dishes including the regional southern Thai and also international platters served throughout the day. Some guests prefer to dine in the balcony of their villas about tranquil setting overlooking the sea and the karst islands in the distance. Later in the evenings after an eco-trip, meeting the locals around the village, snacks and seasonal fruits served by the Bar area over relaxing music. www.islandakrabi.com
